DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-3 are presented for examination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (e) the invention was described in-
- (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b) only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or
- (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).
- 2. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Segars et al. (6,052,774).
- 3. As for claim 1, Segars et al. taught the invention as claimed, including a method of debugging a processor, said method comprising:

providing information about processor activity in real time [col. 12, lines 59-67]; associating the instructions executed by the processor with information about processor activity [abstract; col. 9; and col. 12, line 65 - col. 13, line 40, especially lines 26-28].

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

- (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 4. Claims 2-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Segars et al. (6,052,774) in view of Folwell et al. (5,473,754).
- 5. As for claims 2-3, Segars et al. taught the invention substantially as claimed, including the method of debugging a processor as cited above in the rejection of claim 1.

Segars et al. did not specifically teach

[2] the information about processor activity includes information as to at least one of a jump instruction has been executed, a jump instruction based on contents of a register has been executed, a branch taken, or an instruction which encountered an exception, and [3] providing information regarding the status of the processor when certain processor events occur, said certain processor events including at least one of a change in status of an interrupt line, an internal processor exception, and the execution of a jump based on the condition of a register.

Folwell et al. taught [2] and [3] [col. 2, table 3, col. 5, table 4, col. 1, line 64 – col. 2, line 3, and col. 8, lines 1-9].

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine the teachings of Segars et al. and Folwell et al. because having information about processor activity as in [2] and [3] would improve the debugging system of Segars et al. by allowing for the understanding of how program flow discontinues are handled [Folwell et al., col. 2, lines 22-24].
